The background is a dark grey, almost black, textured surface that resembles a rough stone or concrete. Overlaid on this are numerous thin, bright yellow lines that meander and swirl across the frame in an abstract, organic pattern. In the center of the image, the word "TECHNOLOGY" is written in a bold, yellow, sans-serif font.

TECHNOLOGY

While we are indeed passionate about movement and spirit, we also have at heart to constantly improve our products in order to meet our customers needs.

Our climbing holds are the result of cutting edge design and are manufactured with the latest technology so we can achieve the highest standards.

INSERT

CHC or FHC ? You don't have to choose anymore !

The Stainless Steel - UBI (Universal Bolt Insert) increases resistance up to 300% compared to traditional inserts, no matter what bolts you use.

All AGRIPP holds are now provided with this system. As the use of Impact Wrenches widespread, the Stainless Steel - UBI provides you with much more resistance.

Your Agripp holds will as a result last much longer over time.

COMPOSIT

The new production line of PU Holds allows the hollowing of these. Resulting in holds five times lighter than conventional ones while maintaining an excellent resistance thanks to the PU features. This also makes it an economical product in terms of raw materials.

These techniques ensure that our composite holds are the lightest and most resistant ever made.

Our SURFACE HARDENING system makes the grain unique and high wear resistant over time for unmatched climbing sensations.

SAFETY HOLDS

AGRIPP has the latest «Safety Holds» technology and fulfills the latest European standards regarding these.

An excessive torque due to the tightening or the wall itself can sometimes damage a hold and eventually break it.

The climbing walls being nowadays higher and higher, a piece or the entire hold itself can cause severe injuries to fellow climbers below. A one kilogram set falling from ten to fifteen meters can land with a force equivalent to several times its weight. A hold can thus turn into a deadly object for climbers if not designed properly.

This is why AGRIPP uses the latest « Safety Holds » technology that prevents a breaking hold from generating such debris.

The European Standard EN12572-3 ensures the effectiveness of this technology on safety.

MATERIAL

PE (polyester)

Made of plastic resin, it is still the most common hold you can find in European climbing walls.

A specific mixture of sand and pigment paste (mortar resin) is added to the plastic in order to produce a PE hold. The holds have a rocky touch with a unique grip feeling due to its hardness and texture.

The PE resine is also cheaper.

PU (polyuréthane)

Currently the most resistant resin on the market, which has also been tested by a specialised consulting firm for years. The PU has almost become a standard amongst climbing walls.

PU is more flexible and absorbs the shocks and constrains of installation and dismantling far better. All this makes the PU holds long duration products.

Agripp has developed its first Regenerative Polyurethane we are calling it Danno-lite. Danno-lite is very similar to that offered by a large producer from the USA.

UNIVERSAL BOLT INSERT

The Universal Bolt Insert (UBI) is a revolutionary steel insert that allows the use of both countersink and cap head bolts. The cylinder fits on the flat bottom of the insert; the cone lies on the slanted outer walls.

According to Finite Element Analysis models and ISO 130 strength tests performed by a laboratory, hold strength increases by up to as much as 300%.

By spreading the internal stresses in the hold more evenly around the bolt hole, the UBI technology decreases the pressure at the bottom and spreads it to the sides of the hold, making AGRIPP holds stronger than ever.

ECOLOGICAL COMPANY AND HOLDS

As manufacturers, but also as climbers, we feel particularly concerned by climate change and global warming.

We not only chose to work with the best professionals, we also want them to be as cautious as we are in terms of our ecological footprint. We make them use as few energy and raw materials as possible. As an example, carbon emissions are reduced by five thanks to the hollowing of the PU reduced holds.

At AGRIPP we abhor planned obsolescence and the exceptional life span of our holds will not only benefit our planet but also your wallet.

We want to contribute to the common effort in reducing our impact on nature and climate. By doing this we also want to preserve cliffs and mountains that are affected by increased erosion due to global warming and the acidification of runoff waters.
